Welcome to the Pediatric Medical Home List-Serve!
In an effort to keep your practice connected to the RI Parent Information Network and RI Department of Health Office of Special Needs “Pediatric Medical Home Initiative,” you have been added to the Medical Home List-serve. The Medical Home Management Team has organized a wide variety of trainings, resources, and updates that will be sent out through this List-Serve to project partners.

Volunteers needed!
Please consider being part of this life-changing event!
We are gearing up for the 7th annual Dare to Dream Student Leadership Conference. We expect hundreds of Rhode Island Middle and High School students with diverse learning needs to take part in this inspiring event. The day includes motivational speakers, workshops by youth and for youth, and endless gratitude! We need lots of help for this exciting all-day event including traffic flow, set up, greeters, room monitors, building guides, and general questions.

Please register as a volunteer at www.ritap.org (upcoming events)
Please contact Ester.Rivera@health.ri.gov or 401-222-5887 if you have any questions or would like additional details.

Rhode Island KIDS COUNT is pleased to announce the release of the 2015 Rhode Island Kids Count Factbook.

The Factbook charts improvements and declines in the well-being of children and youth across the state and in each of Rhode Island’s 39 cities and towns and provides the latest available statistics of 71 different aspects of children’s lives, from birth to adolescence. The Factbook is divided into five interrelated categories: Family and Community, Economic Well-Being, Health, Safety, and Education.

Click on the following links to view Highlights from key issue areas: Early Learning and Development, Child Welfare, Economic Well-Being, Education, Health, and Youth and Safety.

Factbook data is also available for every city and town in Rhode Island, the four core cities, and the State as a whole.

To order a complete hard copy of the full report, download and mail the Factbook Order Form or call (401) 351-9400. The cost of the Factbook is $21.40 ($20 plus tax); discounts for bulk purchases are available.

The entire 2015 Rhode Island Kids Count Factbook, as well as individual indicators, is also available on our website www.rikidscount.org.

2016 Open Enrollment Period
The 2016 Open Enrollment Period for the Marketplace will start on November 1, 2015 and run through January 31, 2016. As you prepare for the next Open Enrollment Period, and work with consumers we wanted you to have those dates in mind. These dates are listed in the Payment Notice fact sheet, and the press release announcing the Payment Notice.

Please click here for the full March 6 Champion newsletter:

State Exchanges Breaking New Ground
Recent reports have tried to compare enrollment and retention in the state-based exchanges (SBEs) and federally-facilitated marketplace (FFM) during the second open enrollment period. These reports gloss over the role the SBEs play in driving innovation in health care coverage.

This blog highlights state exchanges’ early work on partnering with Medicaid agencies, influencing insurance markets, developing consumer support technology, leading outreach efforts to the uninsured, and planning for long-term exchange sustainability.

RIPIN’s Community Outreach Collaborative in Partnership with the AAHD

The American Association on Health and Disability (AAHD) www.aahd.us established the Affordable Care Act (ACA) National Disability Navigator Resource Collaborative (NDNRC) in order to assist the development of cross-disability competence in ACA CMS funded navigator programs and other enrollment specialists. The collaborative is funded through a grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation www.rwjf.org. In year one, the NDNRC website was launched with the following URL: www.nationaldisabilitynavigator.org.

The American Association on Health and Disability (AAHD) has released a technical assistance guide for the National Disability Navigator Resource Collaborative (NDNRC). The “Guide to Disability for Healthcare Insurance Marketplace Navigators” is designed to inform navigators and other enrollment specialists about special considerations people with disabilities face as they shop for healthcare coverage and it can be found here: www.nationaldisabilitynavigator.org/ndnrcmaterials/disability-guide/.

The NDNRC has released fact sheets addressing specific issues for individuals with disabilities as they evaluate health insurance plans in the marketplace. These fact sheets can be found here: www.nationaldisabilitynavigator.org/ndnrcmaterials/fact-sheets/.

AIM Access: A New Training Opportunity for Title V and Other State Officials

By Carolyn McCoy, MPH, Senior Policy Manager, Health Reform Implementation, AMCHP

The Alliance for Innovation on Maternal and Child Health: Expanding Access to Care for Maternal and Child Health Populations (AIM Access) project, funded through HRSA/MCHB, is an exciting grant opportunity for AMCHP and its members. The three-year (2015-2017) project is a collaborative effort of six national organizations committed to achieving significant impact in three focus areas: strengthening continuity of care and coverage and care for pregnant women and children, improving systems of care for CYSHCN, and promoting implementation of Bright Futures. New Resources from the Catalyst Center

The Catalyst Center presents two resources focusing on closing gaps in insurance coverage for vulnerable populations. View the issue brief "Improving Access to Coverage for Children with Special Health Care Needs in the Face of Health Inequities: Strategies Reported by Family Leadership Organizations" and a fact sheet titled, "Reducing Health Insurance Inequities among Latino Families Raising Children with Special Health Care Needs.

Podcasts: Interprofessional Training in Primary Care

Presented by the Patient Centered Primary Care Collaborative, this podcast series highlights unique aspects of Interprofessional teaching programs throughout the United States that encourage coordinated care in medical homes. Podcasts include information related to team-based care and integration of behavioral health and primary care through Interprofessional education.

Trauma Toolbox for Primary Care

Developed by the American Academy of Pediatrics, this 6-part toolbox assists primary care pediatric practices in increasing their understanding of the impact of adverse childhood experience (ACEs) on health. The toolbox provides strategies on how family-centered care can help to prepare the medical home to address ACEs and other traumatic events.

Register Now for May 13 TeamSTEPPS Webinar on Handoff Tool
AHRQ is hosting a webinar on May 13 from 1 to 2 p.m. ET, on Integrating High Quality Handoffs into TeamSTEPPS and Hospital Care. In this webinar, Christopher Landrigan, M.D, research director of the inpatient pediatrics service at Boston Children's Hospital and associate professor of medicine and pediatrics at Harvard Medical School, will be joined by Army Col. Clifton Yu, M.D, director of medical education at the Walter Reed National Military Medical Center. They will present their work on the Introduction, Patient, Assessment, Situation, Safety Concerns (I-PASS) study, which aims to improve safety by standardizing provider communication, particularly during transitions in care. Drs. Landrigan and Yu serve as lead investigators in this project. Their presentation will seek to:
• Review the literature on handoffs, miscommunications and patient safety.
• Describe I-PASS, a bundle of handoff interventions inspired and informed by the AHRQ's TeamSTEPPS program.
• Discuss the results of a multi-center study that implemented I-PASS in nine North American hospitals.
There is no cost to participate but space is limited. Register for the webinar here.

Family Support

Join the Family to Family Network of RI

The Family to Family Network of RI is a compilation of families who have children with varying degrees of special needs. All families have agreed to become part of a database that other families can look to when they want to connect with others who have children with similar needs as their own. Families reach out to one another if they have questions about navigating systems, they need to know how to deal with issues and/or situations, or even if they just need someone to listen. There are over 100 families involved in the network and we are looking to add many more!

Policy Opportunities & Information

Family Voices Leadership Team

The Family Voices Leadership Team, is a group of family members, professionals, state agency staff, health plans, community partner organizations and agencies, policy makers and interested others committed to quality, affordable healthcare, support and education services for infants, toddlers, children and youth with special health care needs and disabilities and their families.

Our team meets on a monthly basis to share information and resources and discuss strategies to address the unmet needs of these children and families in Rhode Island. We keep each other informed about important events and proposed policy changes that will impact families and work collaboratively to impact policy decisions in positive, constructive ways. Our leadership team has been working together for several years and is committed to continuing our work long into the future!

Please respond directly to Tara Townsend at townsend@ripin.org or call her at 401-270-0101 ext. 139 (or 800-464-3399 – toll free in RI) and let her know of your interest in joining our Family Voices Leadership Team.

Policy Features

Congress and the President Take Critical Steps for Children’s Health Care

Last week President Obama signed the Medicare Access and CHIP Reauthorization Act of 2015, legislation that was championed by both Democrats and Republicans in Congress in a rare display of bipartisan support. While the core component of this law corrects reimbursements for doctors who treat Medicare patients, it also provides funding for programs critically important to children and their families:

- Family-to-Family Health Information Centers (F2Fs) in each state and the District of Columbia will continue to be funded through FY 2017 at the current level of $5 million per year. These centers provide one-to-one assistance, training, and information dissemination targeted to the families of an estimated 11 million to 15 million children with special health care needs. These families experience significant challenges in caring for their children, paying for health services, and coping with disparities in health care. Data from the 2013-2014 Data Report of Activities of Family-to-Family Health Information Centers3 indicate that families are better confident, better able to navigate systems of care, and better able to partner with providers in shared decision making as a result of the help provided by F2Fs.

- Funding for the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP) is extended for another two years. CHIP has helped cut the uninsured rate among children by nearly 60 percent since its start in 1997. According to a Kaiser Family Foundation Report, CHIP had provided such needed services as routine checkups, immunizations, prescriptions and more for almost 6 million children as of 2013.

ACE Kids Act

Cortex Journal

All but lost among the grandstanding and noise of congressional politics are some nuggets of good work. The ACE Kids Act, backed by Colorado Sen. Michael Bennet, appears to be one such example.

Child Health USA 2014

Every year, the Maternal and Child Health Bureau (MCHB) publishes a databook with more than 50 indicators about current and historical data about children's health. It provides data about population characteristics, health status, and health services. The special features section includes information about the Affordable Care Act (ACA) and federal programs to promote child health. Each section includes a narrative, data, and downloads. Users can query data by age, sex, race/ethnicity, urban/rural residence, family structure, poverty level, and more.

May is when we begin profiling 2015 Speak Now for Kids Family Advocacy Day heroes. Starting soon, we’ll highlight each of the 30+ child patients who will visit their Members of Congress in Washington, D.C. next month. To learn more about this special event and its impact on improving children’s health, check out this video.
